

Ochok Bio:

A Paris-born, Hollywood-based DJ/producer has distilled over 20 years of experience into a bold, new style of house music sure to dominate dance floors and airwaves alike. You might not know the Ochok sound right now, but it will soon provide the soundtrack to some of your favorite nights.

Although steeped in the French underground since he was a teenager, the multi-faceted musician has spent the better part of his career in dance music, with releases supported by artists like R3hab and MAKJ. The time has come at last for him to return to his roots - but with his own unique spin. His aptly titled debut single “Find My Way” featuring William Gregory encapsulates his signature sound: soulful house grooves that inspire joyous movement alongside an anthemic vocal that you’ll keep on humming after the song is over.

Despite its wide sonic range, Ochok’s style bears subtle hallmarks that stand out as a common signature from one song to the next. Each track not only allows its featured vocalist’s talent to shine, but it showcases the producer’s knack for crafting sounds that resemble little else on the market. At a time in which the world is going through a dramatic transformation, it’s just the breath of fresh air that dance music needs. He’s paying it forward as well, enlisting Los Angeles artists who share his artistic vision for his mix series, Ochok Nation.

Get to know Ochok before he becomes a household name on dance floors the world over. With a wealth of new music on the way, each upcoming release promises to elevate his rising star to new heights.
